

Join Us to Discuss the Waterbury Residential Traffic Calming Study

The Naugatuck Valley Council of Governments (NVCOG) invites Waterbury residents to participate in a public meeting to gather feedback regarding perceived speed issue locations, preferred traffic calming interventions, and ideal public request processes.

Why is this important?

As the NVCOG works to achieve its goal of zero deaths and serious injuries from traffic crashes by 2060, the agency is developing a sample policy and guidebook outlining how Waterbury may best address road safety concerns and respond to resident requests. Following its completion, the city will consider ways to best implement the study's recommendations.
